

MANIFEST GOD | TRANSFORM LIVES

When we encounter God, when we really get to know Him, we have a tendency to change the world.

Something happens inside us that shifts the way we interact with people, and we become catalysts—change agents. Each of us was created with a God-given destiny that is the solution to a problem other people are facing.

At our creation, God placed an aspect of His nature within each of us. Our destiny is to uncover that nature, agree with it, manifest it, and reveal His beauty and glory, pushing back darkness and releasing light. As we learn who we are in Him, evil is defeated and His Kingdom advances.

Our ability to reveal God is discovered in our encounters with Him. The way He reveals Himself to us gives us clues as to how He wants to reveal Himself through us. The more we know Him as He truly is, the more we are able to recognize how He is revealing Himself in the privacy of our hearts as well as through us to other people.

God is the Source

The Bible clearly says God created man and woman in His image (Gen. 1:26-28). Some have mistakenly thought that means we can know God by knowing more about humanity. But that doesn't fully work. It's the same as thinking we know a stranger because we've seen their picture. Though we might pick up certain details about them, our knowledge is still extremely limited!

Since we're created in God's image, we can truly know ourselves only to the extent we know Him. If we want to understand the photo, we need to start with the original—the person in the photo. Then we can start to perceive what's really going on in the photo itself: lighting, camera angle, Photoshop techniques, etc. We can't look at the image to know the source; we need to look at the source to know the image.

At our creation, God placed an aspect of His nature within each of us.

Similarly, to really know our destiny, who we are, and what we were created to accomplish, we need to study the original: God our Maker. The more we know about Him, the more we will understand about ourselves.

This flies in the face of the world's common narrative. The world likes to say, "Your internal ability to know good from evil will make you like God. This is what enables you to know who you are and what is good and right." But that's the original deception in slightly different packaging.

Manifest to Transform

If we want to know who we are, what is the answer? To manifest God! The word manifest is key. It means to make known, to reveal, to substantiate, to confirm, to prove, or to corroborate. It is more than information but not less than information. It is about encounters and experiences that allow us, and those around us, to know who God is and in that revelation find out who we are and why we exist.

That is the mission of Streams Ministries—to help people experience a deeper connection with God through teaching, resourcing, and activation to fulfill their God-given purposes. We’ve learned that when just one person begins to manifest God, other people’s lives are transformed.

Everything we do revolves around our core vision to manifest God and transform lives. This is why we help start prophetic communities around the world; support training centers in multiple countries; translate equipping resources into various languages; sell CDs, DVDs, and books; provide online courses; and release online videos like our “Conversations” and “Dream Lab” series.

If we can help people connect with God, develop a deeper relationship with Him, understand His ways, and value His Kingdom, the world around them will change.

If we can help people connect with God, develop a deeper relationship with Him, understand His ways, and value His Kingdom, the world around them will change. As others encounter Him, they, too, will see who they really are and become part of the solution to the issues the world is facing.

People who have transformational encounters with God go on to transform the world around them.

Introducing Our New Ministry School

We are constantly looking for new ways we can manifest God. New ways of teaching, facilitating encounters, providing ministry opportunities, and imparting spiritual power. This coming year, we are excited to announce we will be starting a ministry school to help us do these things at a deeper, wider level.

In the Dallas-Fort Worth area, we will be hosting monthly meetings that include core teachings from The Art of Hearing God, Practical Prophetic Training, and Understanding Dreams & Visions. Each odd-numbered month (January, March, May, etc.), we will teach one core concept about the spiritual life in depth. The following month, we will finish up that teaching with a mentoring session that involves ministry, Q&A, worship, and impartation.

These meetings will be short (Friday night and all-day Saturday) so it’s easy for people to attend without missing too much work. We are also hoping to make the ministry school available virtually for those who aren’t able to come in person. The live sessions will remain small, giving each attendee ample opportunity to interact with the teaching team.

For a while now at Streams, we’ve been talking about training up a “Delta Force” in the spirit—people who are highly skilled, experienced, and ready for the missions God gives them. We believe this new school is one of the ways we will fulfill that vision! We’ll release more information about the school in the coming months.

It is an exciting season at Streams Ministries. I am so glad you’re part of our Tribe and we get to see what God is doing in the world together. He is truly on the move, and spiritual activity around the globe is increasing. I greatly look forward to the days ahead.

May you and your family find yourselves in the middle of God encounters that continually awaken you to the destiny He created you for!

ASIA UPDATE

I was recently in Hong Kong and Singapore doing ministry and sharing the vision of Streams Creative House together with John Thomas, Joe Shrewsbury and the Streams Asia team. As always with Kingdom, it is the people that leave an imprint on the heart far beyond the greatest tourist attraction. We met so many who shared journeys of restricted creativity.

Pieces the Spirit had placed in their hearts, suddenly began to make sense as healing from the restrictions of life, culture and opposition broke out everywhere we ministered. People from a diversity of professions and callings came alive with possibility.

One young lady was struggling with chronic eczema. After receiving prayer for healing for her creativity, found it has already disappeared from her hands the next morning. Through a building series of meetings, more people gathered culminating in the largest Limitless class to date and a Tabernacle gathering where tears of healing turned into a corporate explosion of joy across the conference. A creative freedom movement in motion!
